Blairmore Collieries To Seek Iron Ore In Waterton Area

EDMONTON, Alta. (CP) — The search for iron ore in Alberta has shifted from the Peace River country to the southwest corner of the province with the issue of the province's fifth iron prospecting permit, it was learned today.

The permit has been issued to West Canadian Collieries Ltd., of Blairmore, to carry on surveys for iron ore on 38,288 acres of land surrounding Waterton Park.

Four permits were issued previously for searches in the Peace River district. Reports indicated large quantities of low-grade ore were found.—(Lethbridge Herald).

White Rose Service Under New Management

Mr. J. Szulc and Mr. J. Mosclanica announced today that they have taken over the operation of the White Rose service station, formerly operated as Pete's White Rose.

Mr. (Johnny) Szulc was a former member of the Free Polish Army in which he served six years in World War 2. He was attached to the tank corps. He came to Canada in 1947, and holds mechanics papers obtained in England. Married to the former Mille Spievak of Coleman, and father of three children, he has operated a trucking company on the Tent Mountain strip mine since 1952. A member of the Canadian Legion and the Polish Combatants Association, Mr. Szulc takes an active interest in Coleman affairs.

Mr. Joe Mosclanica also served six years in the Polish army during the Second World War, coming to Canada in 1949 and to Coleman in 1951. He was a member of the army engineers, serving in 11 different countries.

Married, he has been unable to bring his wife and two children to Canada from Poland. He has been associated with Mr. Szulc for the last two years as co-owner in the trucking business. President of the Polish Combatants Association for two years, and is member of the Canadian Legion.

Both men state that they will continue to give the service that has been a password with White Rose products.

Coleman Men To Go To Germany

Paratrooper G. Neston and Private M. Sinclair, both with the 1st Battalion Canadian Army will be leaving in the near future for service with the Canadian Army in Germany.

Both these men served in Korea for approximately one year, and when they returned home they were discharged but joined the army again about two years ago.

Private Sinclair is with the Canadian Army Service Corps now stationed in Edmonton, while Paratrooper Neston is stationed with the PCPLI at Calgary.

These men hope to be able to take their families to Germany as soon as living quarters can be found for them.

Mine Accident Report

The Safety division of Coleman Collieries Ltd. reported that the McGillivray Mine had only 8 accidents during the month of February. Six of these accidents involved lost time, while the other two involved no lost time. All of the accidents were of a minor nature, but having a prolonged effect in regards to lost time.

International Mine reported only two accidents and these were from the construction department. Tent Mountain Strip Mine reported three accidents, with no lost time involved. Safety committee members are very active, and are doing a good job in holding down the accident toll.

Coleman Trucking Co. again heads the list with a No Accident record.

Good going, fellows.

Grands Reach End of Trail

The Coleman Grands reached the end of the provincial Intermediate A play-off trail when they met the Canmore Flyers in two games of a best of three series.

Canmore swamped the Grands 16-0 at Canmore on Friday, March 11. The second game, played at Bellevue, saw the Coleman squad put up stiffer resistance but enthusiasm gave way to experience.

The Grands missed many opportunities around the Canmore net and the score could have been a little more even but the local boys were not in the right place, at the right time. Canmore's experience showed from the first moments of the game. Kemp played outstanding goaltending in both games.

Canmore led 3-0 at the end of the first period, 6-0 at the end of the second and outscored the Grands 4-2 in the final game. Chawowski was the big gun for Canmore, picking up 7 points on 5 goals and 2 assists, followed by Printz with 2 goals and 3 assists. Coleman's two goals were scored by Belter on assists by Kryczka and Gettman.

Although they were outclassed in play as well as weight and experience, the Grands never stopped trying and gave the Canmore goal tender some anxious moments on various occasions.

Canmore drew 9 penalties to Coleman's 3. In this department Canmore need not have resorted to the elbowing and tripping they did. They were brier, more experienced, and never were behind. Why they should resort to such play we don't know. Possibly they were out to show how strong they were, and practice their frightening growls.

New C. P. R. Schedule

WINNIPEG (Special) — Gleaming stainless steel Dayliners, the newest look in branch line rail cars, will replace 6 steam trains on the Canadian Pacific Railway between Lethbridge and Calgary and between Medicine Hat and Lethbridge starting April 24 with the summer schedule. It was announced here today. The switch will follow by eight months the inauguration of Dayliner service in the West, on the Edmonton-Calgary run last August.

Dayliners running between Lethbridge and Edmonton with a break at Calgary will be following a historic route, the C.P.R. pointed out, for they will travel where the Old North Trail was worn into the prairies from Fort Benton in American Fur Company territory to the Hudson's Bay Company's Fort Edmonton. Indian trails, Red River carts, bull and mule trains and horse stage went over this route before the steam locomotive, now itself making way for an R.D.C. (rail-diesel-car).

Schedule details have yet to be worked out on the basis of connections with new transcontinental schedules set in a week-long time-table meeting which was finished here today. At the same time Canadian Pacific Express Company will develop schedules for new truck service between Lethbridge and Calgary where the Dayliners will carry no express and see if additional trucks are needed between Medicine Hat and Lethbridge where the Dayliner will give express service.

Generally the Dayliners will give 2½-hour service between Lethbridge and Calgary where best present time for steam engines is 4½ hours. Between Medicine Hat and Lethbridge the target is 2½ hours, a reduction of 1:05 hours on the best steam run now.

Dayliners for Lethbridge-Calgary service will be the R.D.C.-2 type with seats for 70 passengers and space for baggage and the Medicine Hat-Lethbridge run will be handled by an R.D.C.-3 carrying 48 passengers, baggage, express and mail. The Dayliner with which the pioneer road opened this type of service for the West between Edmonton and Calgary is an R.D.C.-1 with space for 89 passengers and only racks for hand luggage.

The Lethbridge-Calgary cars will carry no mail.

Service will be continued between Medicine Hat and Lethbridge.

The Dayliners for the new service are now being completed by the builders, Budd Company, at Philadelphia and are to be delivered to Montreal next month and moved west. There are three new cars — two R.D.C.-2's and one R.D.C.-3. The schedule makers are counting on assigning one R.D.C.-2 to Lethbridge, the R.D.C.-3 to Medicine Hat and putting the other R.D.C.-2 in a pool at Calgary for service either north (with the R.D.C.-1's presently running) or south with the new R.D.C.-2 over the Old North Trail.

South Alberta Reservists See Exercise

(Lethbridge Herald) Witnessed by militia men from Blairmore, Fort Macleod, Medicine Hat and Lethbridge a realistic cloth model exercise depicting infantry, tank, artillery, and engineer co-operation on the field of battle was held Sunday morning in the armories of the 18th Field Regiment (SP), RCA at Kenyon Field.

Set up on the huge, newly-laid cement floor of the gunner armories with the militia men gathered moon-shaped around the miniature battlefield, the attack was described in detail and colorful fashion by a team of officers from Calgary.

Approximately 85 officers and other ranks witnessed the demonstration. The demonstration staff, headed by Major R. F. Bruce, MBE, CD, of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry, who prior to the beginning of the demonstration explained the principles of war, comprised Major J. R. Koenagen, MC, PPCLI, Major V. W. Jewkes, DSO, MC, of the Lord Strathcona Horse, Capt. D. R. Honeyman, PPCLI, Major A. Edwards, G 2 of 22 Militia Group, Capt. T. P. Mould of the Queens Own Rifles of Canada and Lieut. A. L. Gale of the PPCLI.

Good Turnout

The demonstration, which was recently held in Calgary, was brought to Lethbridge at the request of Major R. A. Reagh and a number of other RCME officers. Capt. L. Proctor of the 1st and A Cadre of 22 Militia Group organized the exercise and the demonstration has now been staged in the two Southern Alberta centres with success, with Lethbridge exceeding Calgary in attendance by a considerable number. Capt. Proctor hopes to hold the demonstration in other centres and is receiving congratulations on the success of the exercise, which brings home to militia men the tactics of modern warfare.

Following the demonstration, Major P. H. Walker, second-in-command of the 18th Field Regiment (SP) RCA, thanked the demonstration team and Capt. Proctor for bringing the exercise to Lethbridge and remarked that efforts will be made to bring a similar demonstration to the city in the future.

During the morning break, coffee and doughnuts were served to the local and visiting militia men.

* Canadiana: Says the Prince George (BC) Citizen, "Even though you don't do business with him it is nice to have the local merchant around. You can inspect goods in his store, even if you buy them elsewhere wholesale. And, of course, he is also useful when school tax time rolls around." ... When Magistrate Anderson at Kamloops (BC) gave a fellow 20 days on a third offense intoxication charge, he said he had surely gone into the right place for getting things done; he had wandered into the file room of a law office and helped himself to a cup of coffee. ... winters are not so long as they used to be, comments Wingham (Ont.) Times because the tumult of Christmas has hardly died away before mail order houses are sending out their spring catalogues, then comes a steady stream of literature on lawn mowers, golf equipment, garden seeds and publicity on baseball clubs in spring training. ... The Well Baby Clinic closes at Deroche because interest is lacking, reports Fraser Valley (BC) Record. ... In the Moffatt district of Sask., reports Wolsley News, Donald Ferguson was born on and has resided on same farm for 70 years ... black eye for Bowmanville (Ont.) oldest hockey fan, Mrs. L. B. Williams, 83, hit by flying puck watching a game. ... at Eel River Crossing, N.B., Mrs. Delphine Auger celebrated 102nd birthday, prepares her own breakfast, does mending, doesn't wear glasses, plays cards and enjoys it. ... Editor of Moldway, Alta. Gazette didn't like letter to editor commenting in uncomplimentary terms on his bachelorhood, added "We think this is taking rather unfair advantage of a situation over which we have no control — so far the editor hasn't found the evil darn fool enough to marry him." ... At Warson, Ont., council passed a motion that no more casual workers be hired who are past the age of 70; a councillor said he had been asked if the town was "an old age institution." ... at Pitman Corners in Ontario, Stefan Dub, wife and two boys escaped getting caught in their burning home on a Sunday morning, only when shotgun shells in the kitchen exploded and awakened them. ... at Humbolt, Sask., Sylvester Valerious has a cocker spaniel, Skipper, which sits up, wears glasses, smokes a pipe — and won't eat meat on Friday, according to the Journal. ... Walton Martindale of Thornhill, Man., lost his wallet containing money and valuable papers, missed it during a hockey game; however a neighbors dog found it on the road and unsparingly brought it in his mouth right to Mr. Martindale's door, apparently eeking the reward offered.

* Government by the people, for the people; we wonder, ponders the Hanover (Ont.) Post, which suggests "We are too prodigal in our expenditures on beer, wine and liquor. We are paying a heavy price for it, not just in money but in the increasing number of alcoholics and in many other ways." ... The Herbert, (Sask.) Herald has a word of praise for Canada's Auditor General, Watson Sellar. "He not only made public some extravagant oversights by the federal government, but he would not give the Canadian Broadcast Corporation an unqualified audit certificate because the manner in which it kept its accounts was not conducive to satisfactory audit. What is our right because, after all, it is the people's money which is being spent." ... Shaunavon (Sask.) Standard: "It is somewhat interesting to note that of the six Saskatchewan 4-H club members who were named Dominion champions at the Royal Winter Fair, four bear names which would indicate they are of Central European ancestry. They are probably third generation Canadians, who have beaten the best in their field."

* Clinton (Ont.) News: "We would suggest residents of Clinton to form a branch of that society known as 'Sittin', Rockin' and Starin' club, which collects no dues, holds no meetings, and has only one requirement, — that its members own a rocking chair, and spend a good part of every day just sittin', rockin' and starin'." ... Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville, Ont.: "A not less persuasive reason for rejecting (by Parliament) the CCF bill for the compulsory check-off of union dues is that it is undemocratic. ... the House of Commons in voting overwhelmingly against the bill, has manifested sound common sense."

* Brooks (Alta.) Bulletin: "As the pressure on taxpayers persists it is possible that the time will come when parliament will demand from the taxpayers for more economy in government administration. That time may not be far off."

* Vegreville (Alta.) Observer: "We do not know that we favor Sunday so-called blue laws, but it does seem to us sometimes that there can be and is too much laxity." On the commandments about keeping the Sabbath Day holy, a further observation: "You will note also that the above quoted Commandment says nothing about the five-day week, or the forty hour week or thirty hour week, but it does mention six days in which to labor and do all thy work."

Questions, Answers On Unemployment Insurance or Employment.

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you.

Q. Can a person who drives a school bus file a claim during the Christmas holidays and receive insurance benefits for that period?

A. If a school bus driver is paid by the hour or the day and he has received no remuneration for these holidays, he would be eligible for benefit.

Q. (a) Can a student who has sufficient stamps to his credit in his book (and this during the last two years) file a claim for insurance benefit while still at school?

A. Can a student be reimbursed for the amount of unemployment insurance stamps he paid during his holidays? If so, how must he present and where must he apply?

A. (a) No. A full-time student is not usually available for employment.

(b) Refunds are not made unless contributions are paid in error. As a student is properly insured when employed full time during the summer, the contributions made on his behalf are not refundable.

Q. I have been working for one mine company for 32 years and I have been paying unemployment insurance since it started. For the last two or three years I have been receiving benefits for about two days a week. Now when I am retired do I get any more benefits? If I do, about how much will I receive and for how long?

A. For a person to be eligible for benefit he must be able, ready and willing to work. If you retire from the labor market and are not interested in working you are unable to meet this requirement, and are not eligible for benefit. If, on the other hand, you are still willing to work and unable to get a job, benefit may be paid. The amount and length of time for which you would be paid will depend entirely on the number of contributions paid at that time and the benefits taken in the last three years.

Q. (a) Does a person who has always paid contributions and upon retirement goes to the United States to live, receive weekly benefits as similar to those who remain in Canada?

(b) Is a person who leaves her job to stay home entitled to benefit?

A. (a) Generally a person who retires from the labor market is not entitled to benefit. Even if willing to take work in the U.S.A. he must first obtain a visa permitting him to work in that country. Without this, benefit cannot be paid to a person residing in the U.S.A., unless living at a border point from which he can report as required to an office in Canada. However, Canada has an agreement with most of the states for the exchange of claims between the two countries. If everything is in order, such as work permits, a person may register at an office of the unemployment insurance agency in the state where he is residing.

(b) No.

Q. I work six months each year (from May to October) with a maintenance crew for the provincial government. Why can't we collect unemployment insurance? We are all over 60 and should not be classed as civil servants. We are willing to pay into unemployment insurance. If we worked for a non-government company we would pay and collect. Why the discrimination when we are only casual workers and too old for civil service? This is unfair and the law should be changed to give us the same benefits as employees working for private companies.

A. The Unemployment Insurance Act makes it optional for a provincial government to insure its employees. Most of the provinces insure some categories of temporary workers. The Unemployment Insurance Commission cannot demand that the province pay contributions for categories which it has not consented to insure.

Q. I paid into unemployment insurance for six years and received benefit for six months. Since the month of June I have been self-employed. I would like to know how long it will be before my unemployment insurance credits run out.

A. Your present claim will end twelve months from the date on which it was made, unless you draw all of the benefit that was authorized, before that time.

Q. I have not worked since my marriage three months ago. What conditions must I fulfill to receive unemployment insurance benefits?

A. You must work for at least 60 days for one or more employers, after your marriage, before you can qualify for benefit.

Q. Can an employee who was dismissed and who seeks work before coming to the unemployment insurance office apply for benefit from the date he became unemployed?

A. A person who was dismissed for cause may be disqualified for a period up to six weeks from the last day worked. In any case, however, the claim will be dated only from the day the claimant first registered for employment at one of our local offices. It is to the person's advantage, therefore, to register for employment and file a claim for benefit as soon as he becomes unemployed.

Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital

Thirty-three years of practical love and devotion and interest in the crippled child is the marvellous record of the people of Alberta who, in 1922, were instrumental in organizing the first Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital in this province.

Now, three decades later the Alberta Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital stands as a tangible monument to this devotion for within its warmly colored brick walls children from all over the province find the almost-magic help of medicine and surgery and good nursing for their crippled bodies.

Some $134,000 of the 1955 campaign funds will be used for the Alberta Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital, Alberta's main project.

No crippled child in Alberta needs suffer just because their parents are financially unable to help, for here, in this wonderful hospital...no one pays for treatment. The thrill of seeing a crippled child walk again...use its hand again...live a normal life again...is the reward of the nurses and medical staff who see, realized in the hospital, the principles of Red Cross. The improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering.

The Red Cross hospital means new hope and purpose for crippled children and a burden lifted from the parents who otherwise would be unable to see their children made well and strong. It is truly a great program of public service that touches the hearts of all.

Since it was opened, three years ago, nearly 1,000 children have been admitted to the beautiful Red Cross hospital which you have built and made into a loving home for them. From the area, Coleman to Fort Macleod 20 children were treated for 3000 days. During the last five years there were 4 children from Blairmore, 7 from Bellevue and 1 from Coleman. The Coleman child was hospitalized for a period of 242 days. Your continued interest in the Alberta Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital will guarantee that the work of mercy never ends.

Letter to The Editor

March 9, 1955.

Dear Tom:

I think you are wonderful...no kidding. You did a swell job on my printing, but I hope you are not charging too much, you old stiff.

I want the enclosed printing back here into my hands by the 1st or 2nd April. If you could have them done in a violet ink (Easter color) all the better. How's things in the beautiful, if murky atmosphere of Coleman? I have survived the frozen north—North of 57 to date.

You'd believe in a resurrection if you lived up here. You may inform my friends, Comrades (Legion and friends) that the Padre survives and is going along well, also the spaniel Pat, who yet attends church regularly, which is more than lots do.

I take pleasure in appointing you Printer to the Arctic. Kindly give my regards to the staff and to yourself. Keep cheery and fit. Yours sincerely, PADRE H. MOSS.

(Editor's Note: It certainly was swell hearing from Padre Moss. The Arctic does not seem to have dulled his sense of humor one bit. There was more to this letter, but we have kept this to ourselves. Good luck, Padre, here's hoping to hear from you again in the near future).

Mrs. Harold Platt writes from Alexandria, Egypt

Dear Platts:

Our weather here is beginning to get real hot; it's been about 90 degrees or over in the last few days. Our yard smells like a perfumery. Quite a few of our fruit trees are in bloom, and the smell is so strong in the heat that it makes my nose sore. No complaints, though. The kids are all doing wonderful. I wish you could see the fat rosy-cheeked things. They practically eat everything that isn't nailed down. For instance, Steve ate six bananas, three oranges and a whopping big lunch. Danny does the same.

Christopher Paul yells the house down when he doesn't get service pronto. He is the chubbist of all our babies, and now has four nice teeth.

We have our new maid and her name is Hanem. She is a very nice girl, and gets along very well with the kids. She and I share the housework, and we get it done in no time; also we share the cooking. She has her own room in the house and lives as one of the family.

Every Sunday morning there is special cinema for the children, and I have been taking Steve and Danny to them. They enjoy them very much. The pictures are mostly cartoons and perhaps a travelogue. A rather amusing incident happened the other week. Shahada, the gardener, who is a Moslem, says prayers several times a day, and usually they pray just wherever they happen to be. This particular day Shahada happened to be watering our newly planted vegetable garden, so he faced the east, and went down on his knees and proceeded with his prayer; at this moment Steve decided that it was a good time to water him, so he picked up the hose and gave Shahada the works. You never heard such a line of cussing in the midst of a so-called prayer in all your life. We all had to run and hide to laugh. Steve ran for his life. Shahada had to laugh later, but at the time he was pretty mad, and who could blame him?

I am now attending school, taking my Arabic and French. The French, not knowing a word of it, was rather difficult in the beginning, but is getting fairly simple now. With the Arabic I started out a little ahead, as I picked up quite a bit of it during the months here. I had only planned to learn to speak the language, but the Professor said that I would be able to learn both, to read and write in six to seven months—so here goes.

Well! on the 24th of February H. S. Platt and myself sat on the top of the Pyramid Cheops (the largest one) and Harold played checkers with our little Bedouin guide, on imprints made by people hundreds of years ago.

Harold had learned to play the game with his Arab workers so when he came upon the marks made in the stone, he sat down and played a game with our guide. We got to the top sort of accidentally. When we started off from the hotel we were plagued by official guides who wanted plenty of money for their service, plus a lot more for taxi fare; thinking we were tourists of Egypt. We told them we were residents and to cut out the monkey business, and we trotted off on our own to find trams and buses, and arrived at the Pyramids for the small sum of 27c instead of about $6.00. We refused the offers of all the official guides to take us around, and then we ran into our Bedouin friend. Perhaps you have read of the young man that can run up to the top of the largest Pyramid in six minutes. Well, he is the one and same fellow. He attached himself to us and proved to be mighty interesting. The Pyramids are quite the "sight", you can't appreciate the size of them until you look down from the top. The largest (the one we climbed) is 481 ft. high. I was not prepared to do any climbing (Mrs. Krzywy's note: snapshots received showed that she (Hazel) had on a pair of high heeled pumps) but did it anyway. When we got to the top I looked down for the first time. I got a good case of butterflies in my stomach, but it disappeared when I got my sense of balance back again. When we got down again we were so stiff we could barely walk in a straight line. The saddest part of it followed: we went inside of the Pyramid and walked up the steep incline; that darned near killed us. The subterranean passage is closed to the public, due to the danger of the steep downward passage. We went up through the Great Gallery and into the King's Chamber. It's really amazing how they put this thing together. The whole thing is a big mystery. The King's Chamber is an immense room with the coffin in the corner. This coffin is carved out of a solid piece of granite, but is now quite broken up around the edges. While we were in the room, we heard several school girls coming up the ramp. Harold got the bright idea he would get into the coffin and lay in it before they got into the room, but wasn't able to make it in time. We didn't visit the Queen's Chamber as the guide told us that there was absolutely nothing in it. We were in such bad shape and had a few more passages to crawl through, we thought it better to conserve our energy. This new boat that they discovered is at the foot of the large Pyramid. They have a fence around it, and the most important part of it has a shed built over it so one couldn't see a thing aside from some immense stones they removed from the top, to enable them to enter in. The Sphinx is small in comparison to the rest of it. It contains nothing at all. Will tell you more about it when we get back home.

They sure had some weird ideas about tombs in those days—as one walks along you see a fenced off hole in the ground. It is faced in with concrete. The funny part is, when you look down, the bottom is not visible. It goes down perhaps for a half a mile, and that's some guy's tomb. Really screwball. Cairo is built right up to the Pyramids; trams and buses to the Pyramids to within walking distance of a quarter of a mile—it's really commercialized.

Got a dress pattern from Paris the other day, so should come home in style; but the point is "can I sew it" as they sure are tight-wads in their instructions.

Did You Know?

That the Alberta Hotel Association donates a fabulous sum of money each year for scholarships, open to all grade 12 students.

The Crows Nest Pass Hotel, being members of the association, also contribute to this fund.

In 1954 in the province of Alberta 53 scholarships were awarded and it is presumed that the donation is the largest scholarship fund in the Dominion of Canada.

The scholarship for the Crows Nest Pass is $500.00 and all students are urged to apply for this wonderful opportunity. In 1953 the award was won by Ted Krycka of Coleman, who is now a student at the University of Alberta studying law.

The year 1955 will make the 4th time that this award has been offered to Alberta students.
